POLICY 6.13.8 Religious Accommodation

DEFINITIONS

These definitions apply to terms as they are used in this policy.

Casual Appointment	Nonacademic appointment to a position of less than 20 hours per week.
Creed	Authoritative formula of religious beliefs or set of fundamental beliefs.
Essential Function	Fundamental job duty of an employment position, as opposed to marginal functions of that position. A job function may be considered essential for any of several reasons including, but not limited to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• the reason the position exists is to perform that function</li> <li>• a limited number of employees are available to perform that function</li> <li>• the function is highly specialized so that the incumbent is hired for their expertise or ability to perform the particular function</li> </ul>
Good Faith	More than a negligible effort to accommodate the employee's request for religious accommodation. If the proposed accommodation does not eliminate the employee's religious conflict, the employer demonstrates that any further accommodation would cause "undue hardship" (as defined in this policy).
Reasonable Religious Workplace Accommodation	Any change in the work environment or in the way tasks or responsibilities are customarily done that enables an employee to participate in their religious practice or belief without undue hardship on the conduct of the employer's business or operation. A reasonable religious accommodation may include, but is not limited to, providing an employee leave for religious observances, providing a time and/or place to pray, and/or providing the flexibility to wear religious attire. Other examples of accommodating an employee's religious beliefs include scheduling changes, voluntary substitutions of shifts or hours with a supervisor's or department chair's approval, job reassignments, and lateral transfers. ◆Note: If the employee is working during certain hours only as an accommodation to their sincerely held religious requirements, that employee is not entitled to premium wages or premium benefits that would apply ordinarily.
Regular Appointment	Nonacademic appointment to a non-temporary position of at least 20 hours per week with an expected duration of at least six months.
Religious Practice or Belief	Practice or observance that includes moral or ethical beliefs as to what is right and wrong that is sincerely held, with the strength of traditional religious views, even if no religious group espouses such beliefs, or the religious group to which the individual professes to belong may not accept such belief.
Student Employee	Student in a nonacademic, hourly-paid position, working less than 20 hours per week during the academic year.
Temporary Appointment	Nonacademic appointment to a position of at least 20 hours per week with an expected duration of less than six months.
Undue Hardship	Accommodation requiring significant expense or difficulty (including a significant interference with the safe and efficient operation of the workplace or of a bona fide seniority system). The specific factors for making an analysis of undue hardship involve the size, scope, and overall operating costs of the enterprise, and the number of individuals who will need the particular accommodation to a sincerely held religious observance or practice. In addition, an accommodation will be considered an undue hardship if it will result in the inability of the employee to perform an essential function of the position in which they are employed.

Religious Accommodation

PRINCIPLES

Overview

Cornell University is committed to diversity and nondiscrimination and supports the employment in its workforce of qualified individuals, regardless of religious affiliation or lack thereof. In all its employment practices (such as appointment, promotion, demotion, transfer, recruitment, advertising, layoff, termination, classification, pay rate, or other forms of compensation and selection for training), Cornell University will exercise good faith to treat qualified individuals without discrimination based upon their religious practice or belief. Therefore, a process has been established to assist individuals desiring workplace accommodation for religious reasons.

POLICY 6.13.8 Religious Accommodation

PROCEDURES

---

For employee requests for a religious exemption from the COVID-19 vaccination requirement, the Procedures for Faculty and Staff to Request a Disability/Medical and/or Religious Exemption from the COVID-19 Vaccination Requirement supersede University Policy 6.13.8 and are located on the Working During COVID-19 website.

Request for Accommodation

Faculty, staff, and student employees can request a religious accommodation by:

1. completing a “Cornell Religious Accommodation Request Form” (see the “Forms” section)
2. submitting this request for an accommodation to their supervisor or department chair
3. if requested, providing documentation to support the request

◆ Note: Whenever possible, such requests should be made at least 30 days in advance of the desired accommodation.

Supervisors, department chairs, and Human Resources representatives complete the appropriate “Cornell Religious Accommodation Request Form for HR Representative Form”.

Discussion

Following the receipt of the request for accommodation, the supervisor or department chair will:

1. discuss the request with the faculty, staff member, or student employee, explaining the university’s accommodation process
2. where it would assist accommodating the request, discuss with others the basis of the request

Documentation

In addition to submitting the “Cornell Religious Accommodation Request Form”, the faculty, staff member, or student employee has the responsibility to provide requested documentation to support this request. Supporting documentation requested may vary depending on the nature and extent of the accommodation requested.

POLICY 6.13.8

Religious Accommodation

PROCEDURES, continued

Analysis of Job/Position or Performance of Job Responsibilities

In determining whether to satisfy the request for accommodation, the Human Resources representative, in conjunction with the individual's supervisor or department chair, will:

1. identify the essential functions or core work-related duties of the individual's position
2. consider the work-related duties of current or prior faculty, staff, or students in that same job or position
3. assess the impact of the requested accommodation on the performance of the essential functions of the individual's position and the operation of the department or unit
4. assess the potential issues posed by the request, such as impact on other faculty, staff, or student employees

Analysis of the Request for Accommodation

Reasonable accommodations are determined on an individual basis.

The following factors are among those to be included in the individualized assessment of such requests for accommodation:

- nature of the accommodation requested
- duration of the request
- alternative accommodations
- financial impact
- impact on the operation of the department or unit
- ability of the individual to perform essential functions of the position if the accommodation is granted
- other related factors

◆ Note: If the employee is working during certain hours only as an accommodation of their sincerely held religious requirements, that employee is not entitled to any premium wages or premium benefits that would apply ordinarily.

POLICY 6.13.8

Religious Accommodation

Notification and Implementation of an Accommodation

For tracking purposes, the Human Resources representative will send a copy of the completed "Cornell Religious Accommodation Request Form" to the Office of Institutional Equity and Title IX and, in the case of student employees, to Financial Aid and Student Employment also.

The faculty, staff, or student employee making the request will be notified by their supervisor or department chair of the determination and, if granted, of the type of accommodation.

The supervisor, assisted by the Human Resources representative, will help make an agreed-upon workplace accommodation effective.

◆Note: Before any request for accommodation is denied, the supervisor or department chair and/or Human Resources representative will consult with the Associate Vice President of the Office of Institutional Equity and Title IX or that person's designee. The Office of Institutional Equity and Title IX may collaborate or consult with other associated offices, such as, in the case of a student employee, Financial Aid and Student Employment.

Informal Process

In the event that the faculty or staff member disagrees with the determination and/or proposed accommodation, the individual may contact the Office of Institutional Equity and Title IX or the University Ombudsman for assistance.

Review by the Office of Institutional Equity and Title IX

If the faculty or staff member continues to have concerns about the accommodation, they can consult with the Office of Institutional Equity and Title IX.

Recordkeeping

Materials related to an employee's religious accommodation request, including the request for accommodation and any other documentation/information, will be shared only for authorized college/unit business reasons and will be filed along with other unit Human Resources documents.
